HR Executive

MID-LEVEL ROLE PROFILE | Human Resources & Employee Operations

Position overview

Supports the employee lifecycle and day-to-day HR operations, ensuring consistent processes, accurate records, responsive employee support, and alignment with company policies and applicable employment requirements.

Experience and education

- Typically 3–5 years of progressive HR experience, with practical exposure to HR operations and at least two areas such as recruitment, onboarding, employee relations, payroll coordination, performance management, or learning and development.
- Bachelor’s degree in Human Resources, Business Administration, Commerce, Psychology, or a related discipline. Relevant HR certifications or postgraduate study can be beneficial but may not be mandatory.

Required skills

- Working knowledge of recruitment, screening, interview coordination, offer management, onboarding, and offboarding.
- HR operations: employee records, attendance and leave administration, policy communication, documentation, and HR reporting.
- Familiarity with applicable local employment laws, statutory compliance, confidentiality, and accurate record retention; India-specific roles may require knowledge of relevant central and state requirements.
- Experience with HRMS/HRIS platforms, spreadsheets (including lookups, pivot tables, and basic reporting), and office productivity tools.
- Clear written and verbal communication, stakeholder management, service orientation, and conflict-sensitive handling of employee queries.
- Basic understanding of performance review cycles, training coordination, engagement initiatives, and employee relations escalation.
- Strong organization, attention to detail, discretion, and ability to manage multiple deadlines.

Key responsibilities

- Coordinate hiring activities with hiring managers and recruiters, tracking candidates and joining formalities.
- Manage onboarding, employee documentation, HRIS updates, attendance/leave inputs, and exit processes.
- Respond to employee questions and route sensitive or complex issues through the appropriate channels.
- Support payroll and benefits administration by validating inputs and coordinating with finance or vendors.
- Assist with performance cycles, training logistics, engagement activities, and policy rollouts.
- Maintain HR dashboards and reports; track key measures such as time-to-fill, headcount, attrition, and completion rates.
- Support audits and compliance processes while protecting confidential employee information.

Preferred qualifications

- Hands-on experience with a recognized HRMS/HRIS and payroll or attendance systems.
- Experience in a growing organization, shared-services environment, or multi-location workforce.
- Relevant certification or training in HR operations, employment law, people analytics, or talent acquisition.

What success looks like

- Employee records and HR transactions are accurate, timely, and audit-ready.

- Employees and managers receive helpful responses within agreed service timelines.
- Recruitment, onboarding, payroll inputs, and recurring HR cycles run smoothly and consistently.

Employment laws and statutory requirements vary by jurisdiction and change over time. Confirm current local requirements with qualified HR/legal specialists before using this profile as a compliance checklist.
